So let's get started...pop in the DVD now and follow along in the guide, making sure to pause the video at each action step and complete the exercise!

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER ONE

Go from Business Owner to Entrepreneur

You've heard me explain the difference in the two...but just in case you missed it, I'm going to explain it again because this point is SO critical to your overall success.

Business Owner = A jeweler who owns a jewelry store

Entrepreneur = A person who owns a jewelry store to build a list of customers and also has web offers, runs jewelry parties, organizes tours to diamond mines for rich clientele to pick their own diamond, has other luxury product stores and affiliate relationships with them

Two different opportunities to go from business owner to entrepreneur include Vertical and Horizontal expansion

1. Vertical Expansion example...someone who buys (or re-creates) their vendors or the businesses they sell to. Go up and down the supply chain and buy those businesses.

What are five businesses you that you currently buy from or sell to that you could acquire? These don't need to be your current vendors or customers, they could be people you want to do business with or you could start that business.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

2. Horizontal Expansion example...realizing the real asset is the value with the customer you can buy or start related businesses that your list is already buying from. A restaurant owner who starts a catering business, an event planning service, a D.J. service, a professional photo shop, a wine store, limo service etc...

You can only squeeze so much juice out of the same orange. WE can help you get a lot more juice, but at some point...you need more oranges!

What are five businesses you that your customers currently buy from that are somehow related to your business? (could be price points, event driven, industry specific, current competitors who are slightly different)

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Start with what the _____ wants, NOT what you want.

The number one question you need to ask yourself is... "Who will give me the money?" So I ask you...who will give you the money? Write down three types of customers/clients/patients who'll "give you the money." Describe exactly who they are, what they look like, kids, family, wants, desires etc... To check yourself ask, "Why will they give me the money?"

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER TWO

GKIC Style Marketing

GKIC Style Marketing is typically referred to as direct response marketing. This means that you can accurately measure the effectiveness of every single ad campaign down to the penny.

Why is this powerful for you?

Ask yourself, what ad campaigns you're running right now or have run in the past? If I sat down in front of you and asked what each ad campaign brought in for you in terms of inquiries, customers and dollars could you tell me?

I could tell you this for each and every campaign I run and that I run for my hundreds of private clients.

So again, why is this so powerful?

If you knew that every time you did a mailing campaign that costs $1,000 you got 50 inquiries and 15 new customers which directly generated $1,500 in profit, how often would you run that campaign? Probably until the profit generated was lower than the cost of the campaign or until you found a campaign that worked better.

SO WHERE DOES GKIC STYLE MARKETING WORK?

- Retail (Bricks and Mortar and Online)
- Restaurants (Upscale to Fast Food)
- Service Industries (Real Estate, Carpet Cleaning, Plumbing and Trades)
- Professional Practices (Law, Medical, Financial, etc...)
- Business to Business (Service, Industrial, Staffing)
- Sales Professions (Mortgage Brokers, B2B Sales, Insurance)

- Health and Fitness (Health Club, Personal Trainers, E-Commerce)
- Every and Any Business!!!

I can't stress this enough and quite frankly you're probably wasting your time if you're saying to yourself "But My Business Is Different."

IT'S NOT!!!

If you don't believe me, let me ask you...

...do you want more customers, clients or patients?

...do you want them buying from you more often?

...do you want them spending more (or do you want to charge more) each time they buy from you?

...do you want them to give you more referrals than ever before?

If you answered yes to ANY of these questions then Your Business Isn't Different!
You need to get out of this mentality if you're going to succeed.

David Ogilvy's Confession

"The only people who know what they're doing are the mail order people."

Business Breakthroughs – In order to have the biggest breakthroughs in your business you need to look at people and companies OUTSIDE of your industry!

What do I mean by this? Most businesses copy people "doing what they want to do" ...not "going where they want to go." Let's take the restaurant industry as an example. Many restaurants owners will look at their "more successful" competitors and try and copy them in order to get more customers and make more money. By copying these restaurants AT BEST they will have INCREMENTAL improvement... but rarely will that have a BREAKTHROUGH.

Many years ago a restaurant executive was at his bank using the drive-up teller and thought, "we can do this." By looking outside of the restaurant industry they revolutionized how food could be delivered to their customers and gave themselves a leg up on their competition.

So what do you do with this concept?

You need to be looking at other industries for your next big breakthrough! Below I want you to list three successful companies that you think are headed in the right direction. They can be big or small, but they must be outside of your industry.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Now write what you admire about them and what makes them successful.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

Now you need to write down something that you could incorporate into your business from each of these three items you've written down. This is NOT easy... breakthroughs rarely are, but this exercise is important because it'll cause you to use parts of your brain that are rarely used. Do this each time you see something about a company that you like or admire. Keep a journal of these ideas.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

For those who need a little help here's a quick example of the three different steps. Let's pretend I own a car dealership

First step...name a successful company: Starbucks

Second step...what is admirable and what makes them successful: They charge three to four times what others do for a very similar product by presenting it, packaging it and selling it differently. They cater to unique tastes and encourage customization in their orders rather than making people feel like asking for something different is a problem or that they are a "pain." They de-commoditize a product.

Third...what can I incorporate: Instead of simply offering the different packages and options the factory provides what if I allow my buyers to customize their cars with things like custom paint jobs and decals, "after-market" spoilers tires and rims, upgraded sound system and speakers, different exhaust system, steering wheel, shifter, pedals, window tinting, remote starter etc...and I let them finance these options in with the car.

Would everyone take all of these options? No. But many people will take some of these options. Instead of competing on price for a remote starter, you're presenting it in terms of payments. It's not an extra $250 they need to come up with but it's an extra couple bucks a month. Now if you own a car dealership your thinking of all the reasons this won't work and this thinking is costing you BIG money. Instead you need to figure out ways this can work, because for each reason you say it won't I'll name five reasons it will.

IDEAS ARE UNIVERSAL AND INTERCHANGEABLE and the person who figures out how to use ideas from outside their industry, in their business, wins.

Special Warning for Business to Business Sales People**

This will be the difference between whether you LOSE or MAKE hundreds of thousands or millions more dollars throughout your career.

I hear it time and again, "These strategies may work when selling to other people, but I sell business to business so my business is different."

Here's the secret that will make you millions...business don't buy anything, people buy things. The CEO in the boardroom buys exactly the same as they buy at home at their kitchen table.

Still not sure about GKIC style marketing?

GKIC style marketing is all about being measureable. Do you want your marketing to be measureable?

GKIC style marketing is about getting customers to respond immediately to your marketing. Do you want customers to respond to your marketing immediately?

GKIC style marketing is about knowing exactly how profitable each one of your marketing campaigns is. Do you want to know exactly how much a given marketing campaign will make you?

FIVE UNIQUE DOORS OPENED FOR YOU WHEN YOU ADOPT GKIC STYLE MARKETING

1. You can use the same media everyone else is using...differently
2. Able to use media no one else uses
3. More opportunities to attract and acquire
4. More money spent wisely by eliminating waste
5. More time and energy to sell by eliminating frustration

Now are these five things you'd like to accomplish? Of course they are...so let's move on.

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER THREE

You MUST have a message about your business

The worst reason to advertise IS the reason most people advertise.

- Reason # 1 = Someone showed up at their door to sell them advertising
- Reason # 2 = They want to make more sales...They want customers

The likelihood of the marketplace responding because YOU want something is non-existent!

Open up the newspaper or yellow pages or any magazine and look at an ad and tell me what you see.

- Do you see a headline?
- Do you see a reason you should buy that product or service?
- Do you see exactly what you're supposed to do now in order to take the next step towards buying?

Or do you see a generic message giving the company name, address, phone number or main webpage? Do you see boring copy with interchangeable features and benefits? Is there any offer at all and if there is one is it an offer anyone in their business could easily offer and one you've seen a hundred times? These are basically glorified and very expensive business cards.

What's the real reason to advertise then? You've got a great message AND you've got something the market will respond to.

THREE WAYS YOU CAN CREATE A GREAT MESSAGE

1. Re-position your business: how to make your business "about something." Think about Disney...it's not about movies or about amusement parks or about cruises, they are about being where "Dreams Come True." Think about how Subway went from being a fast-food chain to being a weight loss program! Think about Harley Davidson "Live to ride. Ride to live."

What are you about? If you don't know how will your customers?

2. Target Marketing: Making your business "for somebody." Who is your business for/who are your products for? Think about Weight Watchers versus Nutri-Systems. While Weight Watchers generally caters to and then is joined by women, Nutri-Systems focuses on weight loss systems for men.

Who is your business for?

3. Unique Selling Proposition: This answers the question "Why should people do business with you versus any and every other option available to them including doing nothing?" Take Domino's Pizza early USP "Fresh, hot pizza, delivered in 30 minutes or less...guaranteed."

Domino's Pizza USP was 10 simple words that put them on EVERYONE's speed dial!

So why should someone do business with you versus any and every other option available to them, including doing nothing?

Special Warning When Building a USP

If your USP includes things, like "I'm honest, ethical, keep promises, do what I say I'll do" etc...then start over. If your USP contains things you should be doing and you should "be about" anyway, that's not unique!

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER FOUR

Ability To Effectively Communicate Your Message

The first, giant quantum leap in income, liberty and power comes when you go – mentally, emotionally and actively – from a _____ of your thing to a _____ of your thing.

Most people are so focused on what they do, that they don't focus on how to sell what they do. Let's say you're the best brain surgeon in the world. You can save anyone from anything involving operating on a person's brain. Is this a valuable skill? Did you answer yes? If you did let me ask you if the skill is truly valuable or the application of the skill is valuable.

To get a better focus on this, let's ask this question. If you're the best brain surgeon in the world, but you don't know how to get the word out about your skills, and you don't have any patients...is being the best really helping anyone?

Being the best, doesn't mean a thing if you can't apply your skills to help others solve a problem, fill a need or accomplish a goal!

SIMPLE TWO STEP PROCESS TO SELL MORE

1. Get good at something
2. Develop the skill to put words together to sell that something

There's a famous story about John Lennon where he said "Whenever we want one, I sit down and write a swimming pool." That means he could sit down and write a hit song any time he wanted and could buy a new car, house, plane or swimming pool.

In The Secret Life of Harry Houdini he said of the secret to success "Get good at a few things then get REALLY good at marketing those few things!"

If you can develop the skills to be a great sales-letter writer you can write yourself a swimming pool. Where can you go to learn how to become a great sales letter writer or at least learn how to hire a great copywriter?

www.DanKennedy.com/7questions

I hope you don't mind that I've taken the liberty of answering that one question for you.

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER FIVESuccess Orientation

Quick Quiz:

Question # 1 - Why do so many small businesses fail when Wal-Mart comes to town?

- A. Wal-Mart's personal service and knowledgeable staff?
- B. Wal-Mart's high quality displays and attractive merchandising?
- C. Wal-Mart's effective marketing campaigns and personalized follow-up?
- D. Failure orientation of small business owners?

All Wal-Mart really has to do to dominate many markets is to stick a sign on a vacant piece of land saying "Wal-Mart Coming Soon." When this happens many "Mom and Pop" shops simply give up because they think that Clyde and Betty, who've been buying groceries there for years, will simply switch over to Wal-Mart because they can save .67 cents on a loaf of bread. If this is the case, you're probably doing something wrong with your business to begin with (or you used to be before you read this!)

Failure Orientation is when people are controlled by external circumstances.

Next time you're bemoaning adversity, lack of resources or feeling you need to conform, these are signs of failure orientation. Just ask yourself "where's the profit in that?"

Successful people, when faced with adversity see opportunity, through creativity and action. Successful people, when they lack resources become resourceful and look for new ways to use old items, skills and people. When everyone is racing to be the same, successful people find ways to do the opposite and be unique. There's a reason it's called a "Unique Selling Proposition" and not a "Why I'm the same as everyone else."

*If what you're doing, saying or thinking
isn't profitable...STOP
DOING IT!*

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER SIX

Processes and Systems

If you aspire to wealth, it might be useful to carefully consider the foundation of all wealth ever created in America.

What's meant by this is that systems and processes are the life-blood of any great company or business. Let's look at a couple of examples and see if you agree.

McDonalds...is one everybody knows. They have systems and processes for practically everything that could, and has, occurred in their restaurants. Their systems are so well documented and their processes are so tightly organized you can plug nearly anyone into many of the positions in their restaurants and they will succeed.

Another one everyone's heard about is the assembly line. By having organized, sequential, operating systems, everything from cars to computers are made faster and better than ever before.

In all likelihood in your business you have some kind of operations system and procedure manual and can accurately provide high quality products or services time after time.

BUT...

I'd bet for most of you, if asked to present your MARKETING system, you wouldn't have anything to show me. Do you have a marketing system?

If not, then what you have is money you spend (notice, I'm NOT using the term invest) on random acts of hope and faith (both often misplaced!) Is that the way you should be running your business?

To put a finer point on this, I'll ask you right now:

Based on your current marketing promotions what are your sales going to be this week? _____

Could you fill in a number that's at all accurate? If your answer is anything BUT a number, than your current system is one of hope and faith.

With a marketing system you get to go to bed every night knowing what's going to happen in your business tomorrow, next week and next month with reasonable certainty!

While we can't create your entire marketing system right now, I'd like you to list three areas around which a marketing system could be created. These could be ongoing campaigns around different products or services, different annual or season promotions or even a one-time event.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER SEVEN

Message-To-Market Match...with a market(s) that will support you in style

Six words that will change your business life FOREVER!

START WITH "WHO" THEN WORK BACKWARDS

As mentioned before too much of the time we start with the "what." What do we want to sell? What do we want to promote? What service am I going to provide? What am I going to charge? What? What? What?

When the real question is who am I going to serve? Do you think it's important to know the age, income, likes, hopes, dreams, location, goals, problems, etc... of the people who are going to buy from us? Do you think that if you're selling Rolex watches you better have the "who" you're selling to figured out before you write your message to them? Could there be multiple "who's" that require multiple messages?

What I mean by this is, if one of your target markets is men buying an anniversary gift for their wife, do you think you might touch on different points than if you're trying to appeal directly towards a woman buying something for herself? I'll just assume you agree.

So right now imagine one product or service you provide and describe "who" your ideal client, customer or patient is.

Willie Sutton (an old time bank robber) was asked "Why do you rob banks?"

Willie replied "Because that's where the money is!"

Now for your next marketing piece, take this description out and write a letter directly to this person you've described...and ONLY to them.

So many people are afraid of leaving people out that they create generic, bland, boring marketing messages to everyone and no one at the same time. You need to write to a specific person because...

There are "Riches in Niches!"

You move up the hierarchy of money when you move from generalist to specialist. A simple example of this is; who gets paid more, the general practitioner or the heart surgeon? The "Astoria Yacht Specialist" or the guy at the boat shop? What are four niches in your industry?

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____

Now circle the niche you're in (or will be in after reading this.)

By being in a niche you'll have an 'idea' that makes you the ONLY choice for me.

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER EIGHT

The Miracle of 'Price Elasticity' Brought to Your Business

Read this carefully because it will change your business and life...FOREVER!

One of the biggest, most exciting pay-offs of breakthroughs one through seven is the ability to sell at prices or fees substantially higher than you ever have before, than ALL your competitors, than your industry norms...even though you think you can't...and have more receptive, responsive, happier, more loyal customers, clients or patients.

FIVE REASONS TO EMBRACE THIS MIRACLE?

1. More income per customer (annual customer value and lifetime customer value)
2. More equity in your business
3. More income per transaction, per product or per service
4. More income from less work
5. More respectful and appreciative clients

Let me ask you something that illustrates the effectiveness of this approach. Let's say you have 100 clients and each of your clients is worth $1,000 a year to you. By embracing the concepts we teach you are able to increase the annual value of each client by 50% to $1,500 (and trust me this is not only possible, but on the low, low end of what's possible) you've now increased your income from $100,000 to $150,000 a year.

BUT...what if you lose clients by doing this.

GET PAID MORE FOR WORKING LESS!

Even when handled correctly there will be some loss of clients when you raise your prices, so let's take a big number and say a full 25% of your clients leave you so now you only have 75 clients each giving you $1,500 each per year. You're still bringing in $112,500 (a 12.5% INCREASE from your previous income) a year and doing 25% LESS work.

You can either be happy with this, or simply use the marketing systems you've created to go out and get 25 more clients paying you more, then start the whole process over again!

Can you name three competitors (direct or indirect) who are selling a similar product for more money than you are? How much more?

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Next to their names, write down how they are doing this.

Let's think about the reasons you're NOT charging more.

SIX REASONS YOU'RE NOT CHARGING MORE FOR YOUR PRODUCTS OR SERVICE

1. Fear
2. Doubt
3. "You are not the Customer"
4. Poor Pricing Strategies
5. Peer/Industry/Employee/Other 'I.N.I's' (ignorant, negative influences)
6. Absence of Breakthroughs 1 Through 8

ONE QUICK TACTIC FOR INCREASING PRICES IMMEDIATELY

Take whatever you sell and create a "deluxe" version that costs 30% to 40% more. Obviously choose things that either don't increase your costs or increase them by less than in increase in price.

What could you add to your product or service to create a deluxe version?

By following this one strategy alone you'll find that if presented properly, a minimum of 20% of your customers will almost always take the deluxe version. What would your business look like if 20% of your customers immediately started paying you 30% to 40% more?

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER NINE

Sticktoitiveness

While this word isn't scientific, it is very real and it is the reason why most people fail at most everything they do!

Admittedly this one is a little harder to quantify, but many of the traits that make people successful are hard to quantify.

The bottom line though is this...if you never make a system and never give it time to work, you are going to fail at most everything in terms of business. You need to create a plan, and then stick to it. Most systems DON'T work overnight, but need refining and revamping. What marketing campaigns, businesses initiatives or systems you've started in the past and then abandoned? List five of them below.

Most people are hopping like flees to passing dogs. Easily seduced by the shiny object of the moment, never giving something enough time to work.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Now that you've listed five of them, circle the one that you feel is most promising and commit to creating a marketing system around it. Once you've created the system, write down ALL the steps in the systems (you're really creating a marketing funnel here) and then over the next 6 month's evaluate each step and make changes, additions, deletions etc...until you've got a reliable and predictable cash generating marketing machine!

In order to develop more "sticktoitiveness" it's important to understand why most people fail to "stick to it."

SIX REASONS WHY MOST PEOPLE DON'T "STICK TO IT" AND WHAT TO DO ABOUT "IT"

1. No reason for confidence in "it" – If you're creating a new system from scratch without a guide and you've got little or no experience about why this would work, then it's easy to lose faith in "it." To combat this, use a system you know that already works for others! The most successful business people often "swipe and deploy" ideas that are already working and get coaching, mentoring or hire someone to help implement this system in their business. You can also read books, buy courses, attend live events or hire consultants to learn and create these systems.
2. No confidence in "self" – Your past does NOT equal your future!!! So many people simply abandon plans because they've "failed" in the past. Once you abandon and truly grasp that your past failures are simply things you learned from and move forward, you will astound yourself with what you can accomplish.
3. Insufficient reasons to "stick to it" – What is the best possible outcome of what you're trying to accomplish? Don't just write "make more money" or "save time" but write down what that money will do for you, or what you can now do with your extra time. Then write down why you want that. Get to the reason behind the reason. Keep asking "what will this do for me" and then you'll know whether there's a reason to accomplish what you're trying to accomplish.

"We now know a 1,000 ways NOT to build a light bulb"

- Thomas Edison

4. Too hard to do "it." – This is actually the best reason to do "it." People waste a lot of time and money trying to simplify something that requires a complex solution. If to accomplish your goal it'll require 20, 30, 40 steps...how many other people do you think are going to take the time to create this system? You'll have given yourself a business asset that is almost impossible to replicate. So roll up your sleeves and start building!
5. I.N.I.'s – Ignorant, negative, influences. The more people you tell about your plan, the more people you'll meet that will tell you why it won't work. Be careful about who you tell, because often people with the least experience in what you're trying to accomplish, will offer the most advice or criticism. Get rid of these people as advisors and instead seek out people who've accomplished similar goals and have been where you have been who will provide educated, positive insights.
6. Isolation – The entrepreneur is the loneliest person on earth. It's been said:

It's hard to have courage in the dark by yourself!

So what's the answer to this? Easy, don't go it alone. Get people to come on your journey with you. You can take someone inexperienced but working towards the same goal or better yet, find or hire someone who knows the way and let them guide you!

BUSINESS BREAKTHROUGH NUMBER TEN

Models & Mentors...Support System and Success Environment

This final breakthrough will quickly and singlehandedly double, triple or quadruple your income...AND you're almost there already!

This first one, modeling, is also a lot easier to do in business than it is in many other parts of life. Let me give you an example about modeling.

If you could become the best golfer in the world simply by watching videos of Jack Nicholas, Tiger Woods, Phil Mickelson and Arnold Palmer, how much money and time would you invest to get your hands on those videos knowing that after watching them you'd be able to replicate everything you saw?

My guess is you or someone you know, would spend a lot of money on these because now you'd have the ability to make millions of dollars a year, playing a game in the some of the most gorgeous spots on earth.

The problem is, it's not this simple when it comes to sports or physical ability.

HOWEVER...

When it comes to being able to duplicate success in business it is that easy. You can simply find models and then follow them. You'll need to invest time and/or money to get these models, but they are there for the taking.

You also have the unique ability to take parts from several successful systems in order to build your own successful composite model.

Now let's talk about mentoring...

Behind every great person you'll more times than not find great mentors. Name the three biggest influences in your life below from the past and what they taught you.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Now name your current business mentors below...these will be people who believe in you more than you do!

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

If you couldn't name any, you NEED to get one or more, qualified mentors right now. There are a lot of resources for you online, but one of the easiest places to find qualified mentors is through GKIC. Just contact us and we'll guide you to the right place based upon your needs, goals and experience.

Necessity of a Success Environment

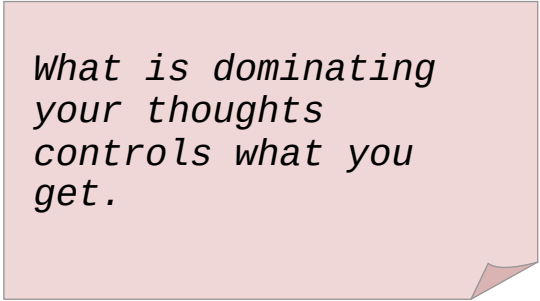

Sticking with the golf example have you ever turned on the TV to golf and seen a player who's about to tee off? Close your eyes for a second and picture that scene in your mind.

You probably envisioned someone in funny looking clothes concentrating entirely on what they were about to do. You also saw others around that person, spectators and officials alike working together to provide that golfer with the best success environment possible by staying as still and as silent as possible.

What does your office, your business, your mind look like compared to this?

The final principal I'm going to share, that will help you increase your income is the need to have an environment that frequently and consistently gives strategic reinforcement.

You need the power of a place where the ambitious striver...the creative visionary...the starter-of-many things...the serious student...the wealth seeker is NOT "odd" or ridiculed and criticized!

What is dominating your thoughts controls what you get.

You need a place where these people congregate, learn and grow, collaborate, are encouraged and celebrated!

At a minimum you need to be listening to cd's, reading newsletters, meeting with like-minded individuals, attending live events and constantly giving yourself a consistent message about what you're trying to do.

My final thought will be this...but it's an important one, "What is dominating your thoughts, controls what you get!" So now write down what you want to get, what you really, really want AND why, and put it on your wall so you can be super-focused on what's truly important to you.

So now you've been through the "10 Big Breakthroughs in Business Life Action Guide" and you're probably feeling pretty good. You've got juices flowing and ideas sprouting. You're rearing to go out and change your business, your life and possibly even the world. However, you've felt this way before and you still find yourself here...so I'm going to ask you what's going to be different this time? What are you going to do so that 6 months, 1 year, five years from now you don't find yourself reading a report or book looking for the answer about how you can change your life?

The answer is below...
